

Water storage

Liquid water is stored in different parts of the land surface, some are natural structures, other are man-made.

